Xscape expansion plan

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A CASINO, hotels and a parade of shops could all be built as part of a huge expansion to the Xscape.

It is believed top bods at the dome-shaped Xscape building are in the late stages of drawing up a state-of-the-art proposal.

They will then consult with the public as well as the council and regeneration agency Milton Keynes Partnership, before they are told whether or not it can go ahead.

Xscape is to put on an exhibition of the plans for two days at the end of the month, to show the public what it wants to do.

Visitors will be given the opportunity to give feedback on the plans.

MKNEWS understands that the new part of the building has a high-tech futuristic design.

The new facilities would join the real snow ski slope, Airkix wind tunnel, multiscreen Cineworld cinema, bowling alley, gym and the host of shops, bars and restaurants that are already on offer at the entertainment venue.

A London design studio has been drawing up the plans for the expansion, which will stand to the north of the current building if given planning permission.

Xscape, which is considered the city's number one entertainment venue, has already welcomed more than 25 million visitors through its doors.

Its expansion would fit in with the wider developments going on in central Milton Keynes.

Thecentre:mk shopping centre has been given outline planning permission for a new restaurant quarter and more shops including a massive House of Fraser, as part of its mastervision project.

It will also provide more car parking and link thecentre:mk to Milton Keynes as part of a more pedestrian-friendly city centre.

Xscape was opened in November 2000 by PY Gerbeau.

There are two other Xscape venues in Leeds and Glasgow.

An artist's impression of new £1 million home for Milton Keynes Rugby Union Football Club

Opponents vow to fight on as £1m rugby club gets nod

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

MUCH-CONTESTED plans for a £1million rugby club on parkland in Emerson Valley have been given the go ahead.

The facility, which will include pitches, a 110-space car park and a large sports pavilion, is set to be the new home for Milton Keynes Rugby Union Football Club (MKRUFC).

Approval was clinched by a single vote at Milton Keynes Council's development control committee last Thursday.

Five councillors voted for the application, four against and there were three abstentions.

The new centre will include training and playing grounds complete with four adult and two junior pitches.

A spokesman for Emerson Valley Action Group, which has been fighting the plans since they were announced in February 2006, said members are 'devastated' by the decision.

The residents' group fears the development will create traffic, noise and lighting pollution, reduce privacy, turn the park into a mud bath and result in an increase in drunken behaviour due to the presence of a new licensed bar.

The spokesman said they are considering appealing the decision through a Judicial Review and will be objecting against the licensing application when it is submitted.

"One thing you can guarantee - this is not over by a long chalk," she added.

Gary Spinks, chairman of MKRUFC, said: "The club is very pleased with the outcome of the voting.

"There was strong opinion on both sides and it was a close call."

He added that it is likely to take two or three years to get the club up and running.

Flats fears allayed

A MEETING with developers has eased fears over a new housing scheme.

An application for a residential development of 121 houses and new access from Walton Road on land at Claridge Drive, Middleton, has been submitted by Crest Nicholson (Chiltern) Ltd.

It includes two three-storey apartment blocks.

The site, known as Middleton South, is allocated for residential development in the Milton Keynes Local Plan 2001-2011 and is part of the proposed Oakgrove Millennium Community.

A decision was deferred by Milton Keynes Council's development control committee on August 16 as members wanted further details on affordable housing and objections from residents.

The council has received at least 28 letters of objection from residents against the plans.

Their main concerns are that the apartment blocks will be too high and not in keeping with the area and that heavy traffic that will use the new access onto Walton Road.

Council officers held a meeting with Broughton and Milton Keynes Parish Council and the applicants yesterday at the request of Sam Crooks, councillor for Middleton ward, and he is pleased at the outcome.

"The three-storey buildings are to be dropped down and shielded so that the bottom storey is hidden and it will only look like two storeys," he said.

"Also, having discussed it with the officers I understand that the access from Walton Road is required for safety reasons."

He added that his doubts about drainage, parking and the proximity of the play area to a pond have been quelled.

"It was also agreed that there will be no construction traffic through the village.

"I am not sure exactly what route they will use but we are looking at existing ways in via the school."

Council officers will present a report from the meeting to the development control committee in October.

Pair in court on murder charge

TWO men have appeared in court charged with the murder of Kevin Joyce at a Bletchley garage.

The 27-year-old mechanic died on Saturday at Milton Keynes Hospital from stab wounds sustained outside Kipling Motorist Centre in Romar Court.

Yesterday, Keith Anthony Orchard, a 28-year-old scaffolder from Walgrave Drive, Bradwell, and James Patrick O'Gorman, an unemployed 40-year-old from Polruan Place, Fishermead, appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court charged with his murder.

Both men were remanded in custody and the case was committed to Luton Crown Court.

Police are appealing for anyone who may have picked up a knife on the road or grass verge along the V4 Watling Street at Denbigh over the past few days to get in touch.

Anyone with information can contact police on 08458 505505.

Princess Anne opens high-tech research centre

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE Princess Royal visited the area yesterday to open a new state-of-the-art management research centre.

Her Royal Highness, Princess Anne, formally opened the Cranfield Management Research Institute.

The £4.3million re-development has been built by Cranfield School of Management, a university business school.

It has transformed an original RAF building on the Cranfield University site into a state-of-the-art research centre housing 100 staff.

The centre brings together the School of Management's extensive research centres and doctoral programmes under one roof, encouraging and facilitating the sharing of ideas among faculty.

The Institute will research key management themes such as management knowledge, strategic change, innovation leadership and process excellence.

The majority of the funding was provided by Cranfield University through the Science Research Investment Fund, while the school raised the remaining £430,000, ten per cent of the cost, through grants and donations from such bodies as the East of England Development Agency and the Wolfson Foundation.

During her visit The Princess Royal toured the new building meeting staff.

The Princess, who is patron of the Cranfield Trust, said: "I am pleased to return to Cranfield. There is always something exciting going on here and new things happening as Cranfield evolves."

"This research institute is a big investment, £4.3 million worth of investment, and that is an important statement for the future of Cranfield as a whole and for supporting your research."

"My congratulations to everyone who has been involved."

Tenants fear housing office will close

COUNCIL tenants in Bradville could be about to lose their housing office.

Milton Keynes Council is threatening to shut the Kingsfold office due to dwindling user numbers and the deteriorating condition of the premises.

The council says it is having to make contingency plans due to heavy rainfall which could cause serious roof failure.

It also claims figures show that when numbers fell during 2006/2007, only 11 people were going into the office each day.

But tenant representative Margaret Burke says there has been a lack of democracy over the issue.

Despite the council claiming no decisions have been made yet, she believes that it is almost done and dusted.

In a leaked email, council officer Anthony Hodson-Curran wrote:

"I am sorry that this issue has been made public before all elements have been considered and an appropriate plan of action developed."

"Once we had reached a firm operational perspective on the viability of the premises and the customer demand which the office takes, our intention was to then share this with customers and members."

But Mrs Burke said: "To wait until it is finalised before they speak to tenants and the public is just demoralising. It is a total lack of democracy."

"Why let the building get into such a bad state of repair unless there's a secret agenda to close it?"

The housing office was built when the houses went up in the early 1970s. To repair it would cost £40,000.

There has been talk of moving the service - which covers communities as far apart as Stony Stratford and Downs Barn - to the civic offices in central Milton Keynes.

But Mrs Burke said: "It was the council's administration that shut other offices causing Bradville to serve so many areas and the civic offices are further away from most of the areas it covers."

Ward councillor Don Hoyle said: "We, the Conservative group, are quite upset with the Liberal Democrats."

"They dished out £60,000 to pet projects at the last cabinet meeting, then say they cannot find £40,000 for repairs to the housing office."

A spokesman for the council said: "No decision has been taken yet over the future of Bradville Housing office and won't be until we have had the chance to speak to local tenants and other interested parties."

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 ODU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

We want art, not rubbish

SIR – I welcome Shaun Clifton's move to stop the vandals tagging his premises by covering the wall with interesting artwork.

My first thought when I started reading the report was 'I bet the council won't let him get away with that' so it's good to see that not only did Mr Clifton think to ask but the council was agreeable.

It's also good to hear someone like Mecha One talking about making a living out of street art, this might encourage other youngsters to get serious about what they're doing rather than just spraying rubbish on every available bit of space.

N Saunders
Stacey Bushes

Where can you ride it?

SIR – I read with interest your report on the police and Milton Keynes Community Safety Partnership's action against mini motorbikes.

It's sad that these machines have to be destroyed as they are probably quite expensive and do provide their owners with a great deal of fun but I can see why it has to happen.

Those riding them seem mostly to be doing so without insurance so are putting other people at risk and, from what I have seen, they mostly seem to be youngsters who would not be old enough to be on the roads.

What I'd like to know is whether it is actually possible to ride these little bikes anywhere legally as it seems rather unfair to be confiscating and destroying them without offering an alternative.

B Murphy
Fenny Stratford

Ready, Willen and able

SIR – Congratulations to your newspaper on the great page of pictures from the national jet ski finals which took place at Willen Lake.

I wish I'd known in advance that it was happening as I would have tried to get along to watch but at least seeing your pictures has given a taste of what's happening at Willen and I shall be looking out for future events.

George Willoughby
Kents Hill

Animal cruelty

SIR – Your correspondent last week is staggered that people seem more concerned about the suffering of a hedgehog than the injuries caused to the man who stepped in to try and save it.

Perhaps people are more outraged at suffering caused to animals because, like cruelty to children, it is an attack against the defenceless.

The RSPCA was set up to prevent cruelty to animals and actually gave birth to the NSPCC as its officers frequently came across child abuse when they went to investigate complaints of animal cruelty.

It is also well documented that children and young people who engage in animal cruelty frequently move on to violence against humans, particularly vulnerable ones.

So perhaps the writer of last week's letter should be glad there are organisations like PETA and others which aim to stop cruelty before it progresses.

Name and address supplied

After the summer we've had, don't we deserve a little colour in our city

SIR – Congratulations to Shaun Clifton for employing some much needed common sense to the issue of tagging and graffiti and well done to Mecha One for some decent artwork.

I have long advocated the need for councils and developers to stop using great swathes of ubiquitous grey concrete everywhere; surely someone out there would have realised by now that this is just giving the urban graffiti morons huge blank canvasses on which to express their vapid tags?

Surely in a country where depressing grey clouds constantly cover soulless, characterless buildings that seem to be the mongrel offspring of a greenhouse and a paving slab, there is a desperate need for colour and artwork everywhere within our ever increasing density of housing?

Perhaps we can show the civic pride of the French and use colour and texture to deny any space for the graffiti merchants, as well as reducing the clean up bill for the taxpayers especially as, in this case, any tagging of Mecha One's artwork would have to go some to show up against that background.

If it were just blank any small amount of graffiti would stick out like a sore thumb!

D Sinclair
Pennycress Way, Newport Pagnell

Just the facts

SIR – Thank you for your comprehensive coverage of the Newport Pagnell coach crash in last week's issue.

An incident such as this brings home to us all the professionalism of our emergency services so well done for reporting on their 'golden hour'.

Your paper is not afraid to hold the establishment up to examination when it's necessary so it's good to know you're not afraid to report on a good effort too.

David Simpson
By email

Cut your speed

SIR – I agree with Damian Smith when he writes that the key component of any vehicle is the driver.

The modern vehicle is more insular and faster than ever before.

It is this speed in conjunction with a lack of concentration, observation, anticipation and, in a lot of cases, the inexperience of drivers that is more often than not the cause of road traffic collisions.

Injuries as a result of these RTCs cost the British taxpayer millions of pounds every year in vital hospital treatment along with extensive periods of rehabilitation and after care.

The main causes of injury in these RTCs come under two headings. These are deceleration and deformity. Deceleration is caused by the rapid slowing of your vehicle at such a rate that any unrestrained object, for example a box of tissues or Fido the dog, is thrown around the interior of your vehicle often striking the occupants in the process.

We all know it's against the law to carry unrestrained children in your car, let's imagine that you have your four-year-old on the back seat doing the school run when you become involved in a collision at 40mph.

The impact is such that young Waynetta weighing about 22kg is thrown from the back seat across the interior of the car with the force of a 'baby elephant', maybe colliding with you in the process.

Ask anyone how many impacts there are when a vehicle is involved in a collision? The usual answer is 'one' - the vehicle hitting another, in fact there can be as many as five:

Impact 1 - Your vehicle strikes an immovable object or another vehicle

Impact 2 - Your body moves forward and collides with the interior structure within the vehicle, for example steering wheel or dashboard - this is greatly reduced by wearing a seat belt.

Impact 3 - Your internal organs strike bony structures within your body, this action can rupture internal organs and blood vessels causing death within a few seconds.

Impact 4 - Your body recoils from the second impact and travelling backwards you regain your seat.

Impact 5 - Your vehicle is struck from behind leading to so called 'Whiplash' injury.

Deformity - is the intrusion of the vehicles' bodywork into the passenger carrying space, even wearing your seat belt does not prevent you suffering some form of injury.

A very common type of injury here is fractures to the feet, ankles and lower legs caused by the front of your car striking the car in front causing the footwell of your car to be forced upwards.

Perhaps this will encourage some of you to 'lift the right foot' and bring your speed down, be more attentive to what's happening around you and to reduce your chances of an accident.

Feathered bouncers at Dons' stadium see off pigeon pests

HAWKS are being flown around the stadium:mk as a form of pest control.

The Dons have brought in the birds of prey due to problems with pigeons and other birds fouling and shedding feathers all over the pitch.

The method was used at Arsenal's Highbury Stadium, where a hawk - known as the Highbury Hawk flew regularly.

The first 'hawkings' were carried out at the Denbigh stadium yesterday as a trial by pest control company Igrox Limited.

Pest control experts flew two hawks around scaring off pigeons and other birds and disrupting their nests.

Any nests the hawks couldn't get to were to be disturbed with the use of a non-lethal shotgun that uses a gas cylinder to sound a 'bang'.

The hawks - named Bodie and Doyle from 1970s' TV show The Professionals - came at 6pm, which is when birds start coming back to their nests.

It is not yet known how often this pigeon cleansing ritual will be used.

Simon Neville, who flew the hawks, said: "How often it's needed all depends on the location."

"A stadium provides all nooks and crannies, so it is attractive to the birds."

"What we have to do is make it unattractive by flying hawks round at regular times.

"We want to create a hostile environment. It's like having a security guard with a rottweiler."

"The birds are much quicker than the hawks so they say: 'We're off!'"

Bird droppings are unsightly, smelly and a slip hazard, particularly in wet weather.

Birds also transmit disease, damage buildings and can cause distress through excessive noise.

MK Dons head groundsman Joe Aylett said: "We've been having some trouble with the number of birds around the stadium or, more specifically, the feathers they have been shedding."

"We were coming into the stadium every morning to a pitch covered in plumage that needed to be cleared."

"Not only was it unsightly, but some of the bigger feathers could have become very sharp if they had been trimmed by the mowers while we were cutting the pitch."

"This then becomes a health and safety issue so, to prevent a lot of work clearing them every day, the hawks provide a natural solution to the problem."

The hawks are flown in pairs because they are competitive with each other.

Dan Bonner with his Cock and Bull beer from the Concrete Cow Brewery

MK's real ale on tap – and that's no tall tale

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

THE city's first brewery is now selling its real ales in pubs.

Dan Bonner, of Coberley Close, Downhead Park, has already sold around 18 casks of ale made at the Concrete Cow Brewery in Bradwell Abbey.

The Victoria Inn on Vicarage Road, Bradwell Village, is the first local pub to be selling the brew, named 'Cock and Bull Story' after the pubs in Stony Stratford.

It sold out of its first cask within five hours.

Mr Bonner has bottled 12 portions of the ale, which he is sampling every other day to see how it matures.

He said: "It's tasting absolutely fabulous, it's a wonderful wonderful brew."

"The landlord at The Victoria Inn has been selling a cask a day."

"All bar a few casks of the first brew is sold."

Now he is making his third brew.

Mr Bonner, who can produce 3,000 pints of real ale a week from his micro-brewery unit, is having bottle labels designed.

He hopes to sell the beer at farmers' markets in Stony Stratford and Wolverton as soon as possible.

He will price it at around £2 for a 500ml bottle.

A second brew named 'Midsummer Ale' will also be produced, using Mr Bonner's modern brewing equipment.

The former landscape gardener, who is more used to brewing with home kits, will use traditional ingredients for his own two special recipes.

He said: "The first brew, a mid-strength amber bitter with a spicy aroma, is called 'Cock and Bull Story' after the pubs in Stony Stratford, and the second is 'Midsummer Ale', a pale thirst-quenching beer with citrus notes."

Around 15 pubs have expressed interest in the brews and landlords price the real ale as they wish.

It is also being sold at The Swan in Astwood, The White Hart in Sherington, The Mitre in Buckingham and The Lamb in Stoke Goldington.

After-school care closures will see clamber for places

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

YOUNGSTERS face a scramble for care places with the closure of three after-school clubs.

Michelle Peachy, from Shenley Brook End, said her daughter Charlotte has been attending Fusion Child Care's club at Oldbrook Community Centre, Oldbrook for over a year.

It is one of three run by Fusion which is set to close after years of financial difficulty.

The others are held at Milton Keynes Christian Centre, in Oldbrook, and Parkfield School in Newport Pagnell.

The service provides after-school care for primary school-aged children from Monday to Friday during term time and play schemes during the holidays.

Parents were sent a letter last week

Worried: Michelle Peachy and her daughter Charlotte giving them six weeks notice of the clubs' closure on October 19.

"We don't know where to send our kids," said Mrs Peachy.

"There are only a few other clubs so we will all be fighting for places now."

She said the service was particular-facing difficulties with fitting child care in around their working hours.

Ian Baird, administration manager at Milton Keynes Christian Centre, which runs Fusion Child Care, said the clubs have found it difficult to meet running costs and to recruit and retain quality staff.

"We are absolutely distraught that we have had to make this decision," he said.

"It is not a decision that has been taken easily.

"We budgeted at the start of the year and found we had made a loss.

"We have carried the service for a good number of years."

Fusion is working to find places with alternative providers for the 50 children who use the service, which has been running for more than ten years.

Mr Baird said some redundancies would be inevitable among the 18 part-time staff.

A chance to star in pantomime – oh yes it is YOUNG city hopefuls have been offered a shot at performing in this year's Christmas panto Aladdin.

Producers at Milton Keynes Theatre are holding an open audition to find new young performers to appear in the production.

The show will star favourite Bradley

Walsh as Wishee Washee and Eric Potts as Widow Twankey.

First Family Entertainment is looking for girls and boys to make up two teams for the juvenile chorus.

There is no age restriction but girls have to be between 4ft and 5ft and boys between 4ft 6ins and 5ft tall.

Previous dance experience is helpful but not essential and you do not need to prepare any routines for the audition as this will be taught by the theatre's dance co-ordinator on the day.

The auditions will take place on Sunday, September 16, at The Garden Room, Milton Keynes Theatre.

Registration will take place at 9.30am and the audition will run no later than 2.00pm.

Promoters are billing Aladdin as the city's most successful pantomime ever and tickets are already selling fast.

Standard set as flag flies proudly

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

THE Union Flag is finally flying at the civic offices.

In July MKNEWS revealed that a row had broken out over whether Milton Keynes Council should be flying the national emblem.

Letters from the public flooded in.

There was an overwhelming response in favour of flying the Union Flag over the council's flag which was being flown at the time.

The Union Flag is known as the Union Jack when flown on a ship.

Council leader Isobel McCall was asked by fellow councillor Don Hoyle to fly the Union Flag on July 10 at a full council meeting.

She said at the time: "Certainly on days like Royal birthdays, we do fly the Union Flag. But most of the time we fly the council flag because we are Milton Keynes Council and it's our council building."

"We used to have two poles but somehow one developed a nasty bend in it and it was deemed unsafe."

She conducted an electronic ballot on the issue and 30 out of 51 councillors responded, with 16 voting for the council flag and 14 the Union Flag.

City MP Mark Lancaster spoke out in favour of the Union Flag, saying: "As someone who has fought for my country I find it deeply insulting that the council should even hesitate in flying the Union Flag."

But on seeing the public's response, the council vowed it would listen.

Yesterday, as the Union Flag flew above the council's offices, Mr Lancaster triumphed: "A victory for common sense."

"It's only Saxon Court at the moment, that's one of the council's offices."

"But I'm delighted the council has seen sense and responded to the overwhelming public feeling in Milton Keynes that we should be proud to fly the Union Flag."

"Now if it would go the whole hog and put one up on the main council building I'd be very happy."

Wesley's elm facing the chop

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE remains of a historical elm in Stony Stratford will be replaced by a healthy tree.

The elm tree, in the Market Square, is famous as it is reputed Methodist John Wesley preached to the town's people under its branches on at least one occasion.

Yet the elm is now in a bad state as it was damaged by two fires many years ago and then contracted Dutch elm disease in the 1970s.

New saplings have sprouted alongside the old stump several times but have died back after they caught the disease from the soil around the old tree.

The Stony Stratford Community Association held a consultation to ask local residents and businesses whether they would like a new semi-mature tree to be planted.

Fifty people replied and most said they would like to see the tree replaced.

A hornbeam was voted the most popular species to succeed the old elm.

It will not be affected by the Dutch elm disease present in the soil.

The association hopes to carry out the work to bring in the new tree this coming planting season, before March 31, 2008.

It is seeking contributions towards the cost of the new tree from local organisations.

The community association is also planning to donate the trunk of the old elm tree to the Stony Stratford Methodist Church, where members want to use the wood to create a feature for the church.

Family's tree Oak-ay in Eco-Park

THREE children have donated an Oak tree planted by their grandfather to be enjoyed by visitors of Eco-Park.

The Beaumont family, from Woolstone, Milton Keynes, grew the nine-year-old tree from acorns.

It was planted in 1998 by grandfather Harry Voss and is a lasting memory for his grandchildren, Matthew, Harriet and Rowena, but it is now 12ft tall and will no longer fit in their garden.

The children's mother, Wendy Beaumont said: "Sadly, few gardens in Milton Keynes would accommodate a fully grown oak tree in 100 years and ours is no exception.

"It was while walking around Eco-Park that the children agreed it would be the perfect place for their magnificent tree to be planted"

Anne Basketfield, projects team co-ordinator at Eco-Park said: "At Eco-Park we are currently working on our new section 'energy' due to open next year.

"In this section we have the story of trees, a perfect place for this beautiful oak."

The Oak will have a plaque telling its story.

Goats go missing from lake – and no kidding

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THREE goats appear to have been stolen from an island in the middle of North Willen Lake.

A small herd of six goats live on the island which is cared for by The Parks Trust.

They control the brambles and weeds to maintain the island as a haven for wildlife, especially birds.

A routine check of the island by the goats' owner Aggie Forster on Sunday revealed that the smallest three goats were missing.

The remaining goats were also extremely distressed.

Following a thorough search of the island no evidence of the missing goats or of an accident has been found and the goats, named Willow, Scrabble and Claude, are believed to have been stolen.

Their disappearance has been reported to the Police.

Martin Kincaid from The Parks Trust, said: "We're very concerned about the welfare of the goats.

"They are very social animals and like to live in a group, it must be very distressing for them being separated from their herd.

"The island and goats are checked weekly by The Parks

Trust and we've made a thorough search of the island.

"We are being extra vigilant about the remaining goats and would ask regular park users, bird watchers and dog walkers to report any suspicious behaviour."

Anyone with any information relating to the missing goats should contact The Parks Trust on 01908 233600.

Curtain up on theatre car park

THE notorious multi-storey car park at MK Theatre is reopening on September 24. The facility on Marlborough Gate had long been the scourge of motorists and was closed for 20 weeks for a £268,000 refurbishment which included widening the ramps which were too narrow for some vehicles.

The revamped car park costs £2 per visit.

Window robber

AN audacious burglar climbed into a pensioner's living room and demanded her possessions. The incident happened shortly after 11.45pm last Wednesday night in Glastonbury Close, Bletchley. The burglar climbed up to a balcony on the first floor of a block of flats and entered one of them through an open window. The woman was sitting inside and he demanded she hand over her belongings and money, took some jewellery and fled back through the window. The thief is white, aged about 18, 5ft 4ins to 6ft, thin with medium length brown hair. He wore a light grey hooded top with the hood up, blue jeans, white trainers and dirty, fingerless yellow gloves. Anyone with information can contact the police on 08458 505505.

Sex abuse charge

A 40-YEAR-OLD man from Milton Keynes has appeared in court charged with sexually abusing a young child. Gulam Osman-Ramcharam, of North Row, is alleged to have engaged in sexual activity with the six-year-old girl on several occasions between March 2006 and April 2007. He appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on Thursday. The case will be committed to the crown court next month.

New nurse is sure to get a warm welcome

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A PARKINSON'S nurse has finally been appointed.

Sufferers across Milton Keynes are celebrating the news.

It is the culmination of a lengthy campaign by Parkinson's disease sufferer Bill McCloskey in conjunction with MK NEWS.

Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust (PCT) agreed to fund the nurse after nearly a year and a half of badgering.

The woman who has been appointed to the specialist position, is just about to start but has not yet been named. Her role will improve Bill's standard of life and that of Parkinson's sufferers across the city.

As part of his campaign – which began in April 2006 – Bill started a 'Welcome Book' to give to the nurse, before the PCT had even agreed to fund one.

On hearing that a nurse had been appointed last week, Bill said: "I'm excited."

Gerry Baker, chairman of the Milton Keynes branch of the Parkinson's Disease Society, said: "The nurse will get the Welcome Book.

Bill McCloskey and friends raise a glass to the incoming nurse

"There is to be a meeting at Bletchley Hospital with the nurse and the PCT, and Bill's book is on the agenda for that meeting."

As well as producing the book Bill also invited everyone in the city to wear invisible armbands in honour of the invisible Parkinson's Nurse.

And he almost single-handedly raised a petition of 1,800 signatures in support of a nurse which was presented to the PCT on September 29 last year.

The pensioner has raised the profile of Parkinson's Disease through a series of eye catching plans including setting up a Swap Shop to exchange a PD society red tulip badge for the best item possible and asking people to wear red for a day.

When he heard that the PCT would fund a nurse back in April he said: "I can't believe it."

"I have got a lot of people I want to say thank you to, but the ones I would really like to thank are those who rescue me every time my buggy breaks down.

"I am in a state of shock at the moment."

More than £7,000 was raised by generous members of the public to help fund the nurse after the PCT seemed to have blocked the appointment in November 2006.

Parkinson's Disease is a progressive neurological condition affecting movements such as walking, talking and writing.

The new nurse will work with patients to help manage complex drug regimes, improve access to medical advice, save costs and time in respect of consultants and GPs and co-ordinate with other services, such as hospital admissions.

The PD society will fund staffing costs for the first two years and the PCT will provide funding of £43,500 and £45,000 in years three and four, before carrying out a review of the service.

Addiction to sunbeds a worrying bleamish on my skin profile

LAST week a skin doctor was in town to promote a new beauty food. Reporter ALICIA BABAEE agreed to go under the magnifying glass.

Skin care specialists: Dr Sally Penfold and Charlene De Villiers

LETTING a stranger look deep into your pores is a little bit nerve-racking.

The skin doctor sees beyond the concealer and illuminating fluid, using her little Flashdance-style hands-free light and magnifying glasses.

A recent survey has shown that 95 per cent of women in Milton Keynes are unhappy with the state their skin.

I wouldn't really say I'm one of them.

But sitting in the office on a Friday morning, awaiting the arrival of skin doctor Sally Penfold, I couldn't help but worry that a hard week's work and a few late nights would probably have had a bad effect on my skin.

First came the questions. How much water do I drink? Not enough, I know that for sure.

With skin doctor Sally and her assistant Charlene De Villiers peering over me, I wondered whether to lie. But hopefully I piped up: "Does tea count?"

Bad question.

In case you didn't know, the answer was a resounding 'No!'

Apparently, for every cup of tea I guzzle, I need to drink four glasses es to replenish the moisture lost by drinking it.

So, with the six cups (at least) I consume a day, I should be drinking (quick calculation...) 24 glasses of water a day, just to restock what I'm losing.

Drink, anyone?

I also drink alcohol, but I was glad to be able to tell her I don't smoke.

She looked at my skin with her magnifying glasses, during which time she told me I have dehydration lines (I sincerely hope she doesn't mean wrinkles!) on my forehead and cheeks, where they are common.

She said I also have a slight flakey texture on the side of my nose, which is once again a side effect of dehydration.

Charlene told me that women should use an SPF 15 everyday, even when we're not spending the day outdoors.

At this, I couldn't hold in my secret any longer and blurted out my confession: "I use sunbeds!"

Their faces said it all. It was as if I'd suggested an orgy in a Catholic Church.

Charlene and Sally – who never sunbathe – told me that sunbathing, especially on a sunbed, is the worst thing you can do for your skin. Funnily enough, it's my favourite thing to do.

I felt like a naughty school child.

They gave me all the warnings about premature ageing and advised me to use fake tan.

I have a few dilated capillaries on my cheeks, which would improve if I ate more red raspberries.

The women are in Milton Keynes as part of Essensis Good Skin Week. They are both from the International Dermal Institute – an independent organisation – but have been brought in following the production of the world's first beauty food.

Danone Essensis yoghurt containing starflower oil, extracts of green tea and vitamin E. The ingredients have been used in beauty products for years, but this is the first time they have been incorporated into a food.

Their aim is to encourage city women to get their skin into a condition that they're proud of.

Sally said: "I was apprehensive about the product.

"My first thought was one of scepticism.

"But they presented me with the clinical studies and it's fantastic. It greatly increases the skin's barrier resistance function.

"It does make a visible difference, because your skin will be more protected so there will be less sensitivity, less chance of invasion from environmental pollutants.

"Your skin will hold in more moisture, which gives more light reflection, and that's how you get that healthy glow.

"It works everywhere, all over the body."

They claim two pots of Essensis a day should make a visible difference within six weeks.

Sally added: "Essensis isn't a miracle cure. It needs to be incorporated into a holistic, healthy lifestyle.

"It's designed for women aged between 20 and 25, but anyone can eat it."

The report also showed 72 per cent of city women would rather choose a healthier balanced diet that nourishes skin from within, than spend time and money on sophisticated skin care regimes.

For more information go to www.essensis.danone.co.uk.

Who's in charge – You or your bladder?

Incontinence is a very common problem for women, and yet you probably don't think many of your friends suffer from it, and they probably don't know if you do.

Bladder problems can stop women from living life to the full. Do any of the following sound familiar?

- You avoid going out or plan a trip around toilet locations
- You limit what you drink to avoid embarrassment
- You dread having a laugh for fear of unwanted leaks

If you suffer from any form of incontinence, or involuntary loss of urine, you are certainly not alone. It is a very common condition in women of all ages. There are a number of factors that cause the pelvic floor muscles to weaken including childbirth and the menopause. There is good evidence to support the use of daily pelvic floor muscle training as a safe and effective treatment for a large number of cases.

Don't suffer in silence or let this problem get worse – you can be treated by a women's health physiotherapist who will make an assessment of your condition, provide you with advice and a treatment programme that ensures you are doing the right exercises in the right way, tailored to suit your individual needs.

Many women receiving treatment have made comments such as -

"It's so good to know I'm doing the exercises correctly – I've been doing them wrong all my life"

"I wish I'd learned these exercises years ago – but I just wasn't told how important they are"

"I will definitely keep doing these exercises now I know how easy they are – and that I'm doing them right"

"I thought it was normal to leak a bit, so I've just put up with it. It's great to finally be in control again"

Don't let your confidence and self-esteem be affected by your bladder, discuss your concerns with your GP who can agree treatment options with you. Alternatively you can make a private appointment directly with a specialist women's health physiotherapist.

Whether you see your GP or a women's health physiotherapist you can be assured that you will be treated in confidence, with respect and dignity throughout.

There are a number of websites offering more information about the condition and treatment; a few of which are listed below:

The PCT's Rebecca Hughes, mayor Mike Barry and Janet Corbett with a bottle made from just two weeks worth of wasted medicines from MK's Hospital pharmacy

More care urged to cut down on wasted drugs bill

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

HEALTH services have urged people not to order unnecessary medication as they foot the bill for £1.5million wasted drugs each year in the city.

Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust launched a campaign yesterday, alongside GPs and pharmacies, to tackle the problem.

Janet Corbett, the PCT's chief pharmacist, said: "For safety, environmental and financial reasons we must engage with the wider community to address this issue.

"Every year people order lots of costly medicines which, for various reasons, they do not end up taking.

"This creates a massive amount of waste and means the NHS has less to spend on other things that really matter. People should keep only small amounts of medication and store them out of sight and reach of children."

MKPCT estimates that the wasted money could either pay for 375 more hip replacements a year, 214 more heart by-pass operations, special care cots for 375 more babies, 50 more midwives, intensive care beds for 300 more patients or 1,500 cataract operations.

Once medicines have been prescribed they cannot be recycled and have to be thrown away.

Posters and leaflets will be distributed to GPs' surgeries and pharmacies across Milton Keynes and a programme of medicines 'amnesties' for people to dispose of unwanted medicines will be held during October.

People with repeat prescriptions will be reminded to only order what they need.

Anyone with unwanted medicines can return them to their local pharmacy for safe disposal.

Skills day hopes to reduce motorcycle fatalities in city

A PILOT motorcycle skills day has been launched in an attempt to reduce the number of biker deaths in the city.

In the three and a half years to the end of May there have been 80 motorcyclists killed or seriously injured in Milton Keynes.

That is the equivalent of two a month prompting

Milton Keynes Council's road safety department to offer a chance for bikers to get their riding skills assessed free of charge.

There are 12 places available on a special rider assessment day to be held on Saturday, October 6.

Road safety officer Vince Morley said: 'Bikers are very vulnerable.

"Sadly we have had some very serious crashes involving motorbikes this year in Milton Keynes.

"This assessment day is just the start of trying to reduce the number of those crashes, I hope to expand the scheme next year."

The course will take place at 500 Avebury Boulevard and will consist of a classroom session, followed by an assessed ride with instructors who are experienced motorcyclists.

Mr Morley is a keen biker himself with more than 25 years' experience.

"This is not about learning to ride, it's for anyone with a bike licence who would benefit from an assessment of their riding – and you can never know it all," he added.

"People can get into bad habits without realising it. "Normally all it takes is for someone to point out to them what they've been doing wrong and then they can correct it."

To apply for a place on the course contact the Road Safety Team on 01908 254601 or email vince.morley@milton-keynes.gov.uk

Biker dies in crash

A MOTORCYCLIST has died after a collision on the V3 Fulmer Street on Monday night.

A red and white Yamaha motorbike was in collision with a blue Renault Clio where the V3 meets Blackmoor Gate in Furzton, at about 6.35pm.

The rider of the motorcycle was pronounced dead at the scene and was identified yesterday as Ricky Fordham, aged 36 of Kents Hill.

The driver of the Clio was taken to Milton Keynes General Hospital with serious injuries.

His condition is serious but stable.

A passenger from the vehicle was also taken to the same hospital with minor injuries.

Roads policing officers are appealing for witnesses to the collision.

Anyone with information can contact PC Ian Sterry on 08458 505505.

Festive theme is tale of riverbank

IT might still be summer but at thecentre:mk they are gearing up for Christmas!

The shopping centre has announced its theme for this year's Christmas Show as Kenneth Grahame's The Wind in the Willows.

The tale of Toad, Ratty, Mole and Badger's adventures along the riverbank has been a firm favourite since its publication 100 years ago.

The show opens on Tuesday, November 6 when Santa makes his dramatic entrance by sleigh, with real-life reindeer.

The centrepiece for the show this year will be a meandering winter riverbank with bridges, Ratty rowing away in his boat and Mole picnicking alongside.

The riverbank will stretch the length of Middleton Hall, an indoor events area, and feature a delightful boathouse (the ticket office) and a working waterwheel.

Badger will be taking on the role of storyteller for the show and will be performing every half hour.

Toad's various fads and crazes are an integral part of the story and his Romany caravan complete with cob horse and dazzling vintage car suspended above the show, are sure to add a touch of glamour.

The wintry Christmas theme continues with snowy hillside fun – mischievous weasels, Toad and friends ski-ing and sledging and building a snowman. In Mole End, Mole's enchanting home, bunnies entertain him with their carol singing.

As always, pride of place goes to

The Wind in the Willows is the Christmas theme announced for thecentre:mk

MK Pets

...show your pets the good life

It's Pet Smile Week

MILTON Keynes Veterinary Group covers the whole of the city with branches at Stony Stratford, Willen, and Stoke Rd and Whaddon Way in Bletchley.

We also have the only Veterinary Hospital in Milton Keynes at Walnut Tree, which has state-of-the-art equipment and veterinary surgeons on-site 24hrs a day to provide quality care for your pet.

Our 12 vets are all interested in different fields of veterinary medicine including; ophthalmology, dermatology and reptile medicine. In addition one of our vets has a Royal College Certificate in Small Animal Surgery and particularly enjoys orthopaedic surgery. We are admirably supported by excellent nursing staff and a friendly reception team.

It's easy to overlook animals' teeth and owners often only become aware of a problem when their pet starts showing symptoms of bad breath or refusing food. Early intervention - changing diet, brushing and descaling teeth can all help to reduce pain, tooth loss or extraction in later life. During pet smile week our team of 15 fully qualified nurses would love to see your pet for a dental health check, and during the rest of the year they run clinics for nail clipping, worming and identichipping, as well as health checks for older patients and weight clinics.

Disaster zone: Cllr Mallyon took this photograph during Hurricane Dean

Councillor caught up in non political storm tells all

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A CITY councillor got a fright when he was told a hurricane was about to rip through his hotel in Mexico.

Alan Mallyon, from Neath Hill, was looking forward to sun, sand and tequila when he booked an all-inclusive four star holiday to Cancun, Mexico, but Hurricane Dean had other ideas.

The storm battered its way through the Caribbean, causing two-thirds of tourists in the Cancun area to leave as soon as possible, but Cllr Mallyon was stranded because all flights out were fully booked.

He said: "We heard that a hurricane might be heading our way so I checked the National Hurricane Centre's website and the projected line went right through our hotel lobby.

"It got quite scary because the hotel told us to pack our bags with two changes of clothing and said we could be evacuated within hours.

"Then we saw men boarding up the windows and it was more like a scene from an air raid in World War Two."

It got quite scary because the hotel told us to pack our bags with two changes of clothing and said we could be evacuated within hours... We'll go somewhere else next year

— Cllr Alan Mallyon

They watched television images nervously as the hurricane tore through Mexico before drifting south of the resort.

Cllr Mallyon said: "It hit at 2am on August 21 and we were all rushed into the hotel cellar.

"The winds were ferocious, whipping around at about 70mph constantly.

"It was a close shave and when we went outside we saw the damage and all the trees had been uprooted. "We'll go somewhere else next year."

Training with your own Iron Man is not as hard as it sounds

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A PERSONAL trainer who completed the Iron-Man triathlon this year has set up a Boot Camp to whip others into shape.

Simon Williams a self-employed personal trainer from Emerson Valley, completed a 2.4 mile swim, 112 mile bike ride and then a 26.2 mile marathon-length run within 17 hours at the Iron-Man event in Zurich in June.

The 31-year-old trained hard for six months for the event, including travelling to Italy where he spent ten days practising cycling up mountains.

He raised £1,800 for the National Deaf Children's Society, a charity close to his heart as he lost hearing in one ear when he was 26.

Simon is also a qualified sky diver, a fire walker and has a black belt in kick boxing and free-style karate.

He has been a personal trainer for three years and has now set up a Boot Camp held in the open at Campbell Park.

I went along for a taster session to see what it is all about.

Simon explained that he decided to set up the Boot Camp as he enjoys training outdoors.

"I love training outside in the fresh air, with nice views," he said.

"It is great in Campbell Park when the sun sets just as we are stretching off at the end of the session.

"It is amazing how many nice green places there are around Milton Keynes. "It makes it a bit different."

He said he also wanted to arrange a group exercise that would make working out fun.

"People bring their friends and colleagues along so it becomes a laugh," he said.

Simon has only been running the sessions since July and is already attracting 15 to 20 people to each Boot Camp.

The group meets on Thursday evenings when Simon puts them through activities such as jogging and going over exercise equipment including the rope ladder, around cones and over jumps.

Members are also encouraged to “People really enjoy the team games – they don’t even realise they are exercising... I have trained people from marines to 61-year-old granddads and house wives; it is always about finding the appropriate level

– Simon Williams, pictured putting Laura through her paces interact and enjoy exercising together with team games such as tag, leap frog, wheel barrow and piggy back races and partner exercises like passing a ball.

"People really enjoy the team games – they don't even realise they are exercising," said Simon.

The sessions are generally split into two groups according to people's ability.

"I have trained people from marines to 61-year-old granddads and house wives; it is always about finding the appropriate level," said Simon.

"We have had one 18-year-old come along, but the average age is 35 to 40.

"Many have done some kind of working out before and this offers something different."

I enjoyed my Boot Camp session with Simon and think it is perfect for those who need a push in the right direction but can't afford the time or money for one-to-one personal training.

The sessions cost £5, or £20 for five, and last around an hour.

Records shattered on drive home from Japan

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A TEACHER has broken into the record books by driving an Aston Martin from Tokyo to London.

Richard Meredith, from Newport Pagnell, explained his incredible journey to shoppers and dignitaries at Midsummer Place on Monday.

He became the first person to drive a car the entire length of the new Asian Highway, a total of 10,000 miles, alongside co-driver Phil Colley.

They crossed 18 countries in 48 days before arriving home on August 14.

Standing on a podium next to the hardened V8 Vantage, Richard said it was the proudest day of his life but also drew special attention to his chosen cause – UNICEF's 'Make Roads Safe' campaign.

Richard, 58, said: "It was a wonderful journey full of danger, excitement and adventure. "The V8 Vantage is a wonderful car and it never let us down once."

"But achieving this success for Newport Pagnell is my greatest satisfaction."

Richard Meredith holds up a map of his epic journey driving from Japan to London

He thanked friends and local businesses from the city before Milton Keynes Council chief executive John Best and Mayor Mike Barry paid their tributes to his achievement.

The journey highlighted the poor conditions and regulations on roads across Eastern Europe and Asia.

Road crashes are now the number one killer of young people aged between ten and 24 in those areas.

Shoppers signed a petition and donated cash towards Richard's £68,000 target, to help UNICEF provide road safety education for children in China.

Richard said: "So many young children are dying on new roads in China and it's on the increase with more cars on those roads."

"We've been able to raise awareness of road safety across Asia."

The V8 Vantage, which was specially built and donated by Aston Martin, will raise more funds at auction in December where it is expected to fetch £60,000.

Bike crash boy leaves hospital

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

THE boy who suffered serious injuries after being in an accident with a double decker bus has been discharged from hospital.

The incident – in which the youngster became trapped under the vehicle – happened at around 1pm on August 23 on the V7 Saxon Street near Eaglestone.

Witnesses said the child – who is estimated to be around 12-years-old – was cycling across the road.

Police, paramedics and fire-fighters rushed to the scene and the boy had to be cut free so he could be taken to Milton Keynes General Hospital.

But last week he was discharged.

The road was closed while Thames Valley Police carried out investigations.

Inspector Paul Winks, head of roads policing for Milton Keynes, said at the time: "A double decker bus travelling northbound on the V7 by Eaglestone was in collision with a pedal cyclist."

"It is a young male child. He has serious injuries. His family has been notified."

Two other boys, around the same age, were with him at the Scene of the accident: A policeman examines the boy's bicycle time. There were no passengers on the bus.

The incident took place just yards from where 12-year-old Barrie Fraser died on the V7 Saxon Street in December 2003 after being hit by a car.

The road has a 40mph speed limit after Barrie's father Peter led a campaign for it to be reduced from 60mph.

Police are appealing for witnesses. Call 08458 505 505 with information.

WWW.MKWEB.CO.UKTarmac tipper fined for leaving a mess

A GROUNDWORKER has been left thousands of pounds out of pocket after being caught dumping Tarmac near a warehouse in Milton Keynes.

Gerrard Lee, 43, was spotted dumping the load in the car park of the old Poundstretcher Warehouse, in North Crawley Road, Newport Pagnell.

He appeared before Milton Keynes magistrates last week, after admitting one offence of fly-tipping under the Environmental Protection Act 1990.

He was fined £2,500 and ordered to pay the prosecution costs of £899.56.

Lee, of Birstall, Leicester, had previously sent through a guilty plea to the offence by post. However, as the illegal dumping of waste is an 'either way' offence, meaning it could have been dealt with at Crown Court, he was ordered to appear in person.

The court heard that he was spotted tipping the Tarmac on January 31 this year by an eyewitness who reported it to the Safer Communities Unit (SCU).

Unit staff traced the Ford Transit he was driving back to Manly Company Limited, based in Birstall, Leicester. The owner confirmed it was being driven by Gerrard Lee, who was later interviewed by the SCU.

Lee said it was common practice to dump building materials in neighbouring Northamptonshire, where he thought he was. But he did offer to remove the Tarmac and did so.

Safer Communities Unit Manager Pete Roberts said: "This is an important result and we are very pleased that the magistrates treated this offence with the seriousness it deserved."

Authorities combine to make 'favourable' Communities England

GOVERNMENT proposals for a new single agency dealing with national housing and regeneration programmes have met with a strong response from the city's cabinet.

The new agency Communities England will bring together functions of the Housing Corporation, English Partnerships and the Department of Communities and Local Government with responsibility for affordable housing and improvements to existing stock; estate and mixed-use urban regeneration; reclamation and development of brownfield land and supporting strategic growth.

As the remit of the proposed organisation affects Milton Keynes, the council's cabinet has agreed a full council response explaining how the Government's growth agenda should most appropriately be carried out at a local level.

Members further commented on how the agency should operate against each of its major remits, as proposed in the consultation.

The response letter, which will now be sent to the Government, was drawn up in consultation with all political parties on the council.

Council leader Isobel McCall, said: "The establishment of Communities England is very significant to us because it will impact on Milton Keynes Partnership, which is a sub-committee of English Partnerships' board.

"The new organisation must work in partnership with us to deliver what residents want and not impose from above.

"As Milton Keynes is earmarked for growth we will continue to stress the importance of getting adequate funding for services and sufficient related infrastructure to meet the needs of residents."

Some of the key issues highlighted in the cabinet's response are:

■ Greater recognition of the need to invest in high growth areas and former new towns

■ Re-investment within Milton Keynes of English Partnerships' (and subsequently Communities England) capital receipts from land disposals

■ Greater recognition of the need to meet local needs with local solutions

■ Greater democratic leadership and input

■ The necessity for co-ordinated strategies from Government departments to provide services and infrastructure in growth areas

■ The need for the local community to determine regeneration priorities.

Salon signs up to new skills pledge

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A HAIRDRESSING salon is among the first to undertake the Government's Skills Pledge.

Chris Hayter, managing director of The Health Oasis in Bradwell Common, met Prime Minister Gordon Brown in London last month.

She presented her pledge to Tottenham MP David Lammy (pictured) at The Marriott on Grosvenor Square, London.

The Skills Pledge initiative is designed to improve and develop the skills of a company's workforce.

It ensures companies of all sizes, like The Health Oasis, train their staff and offer programmes, apprenticeships and opportunities to develop their skills within the business and ultimately improve the working environment.

Mrs Hayter got the Health Oasis on board to ensure training stays at the top of its agenda.

She said: "Most people that know the Health Oasis understand we're not just a salon."

"We have prided ourselves on the fact that we're different and go further for our customers and we were delighted when we were able to attend the launch in London to be part of the programme."

Businesses who make the pledge will use the Learning and Skills Council's Train to Gain service to get access to a skills broker who carries out a needs analysis of training within the company.

Global names such as McDonalds, Sainsbury's, Center Parcs, Dolland & Aitchison Ltd, City Gate and many more have signed up for the Skills Pledge.

Mrs Hayter added: "It's a wonderful feeling to be part of a national campaign to strengthen the nation's economic power."

"Although we may be small in the grand scheme of things, we are proud to be an example to others of what can be achieved in the work place."

Becky's on a roll, be a part of it

ACCOUNTS apprentice Becky Evans will be hoping for top marks in her bid for the World Artistic Roller Skating championship in Australia next month.

Becky, 17, who works for the accounts department of Milton Keynes Council's contractor HBS, is pinning her hopes on fulfilling her ambition to compete in the pairs finals due to be held in the Gold Coast, Australia at the end of October.

Now she and her dance partner, Nicholas Perry (pictured) are seeking a sponsor to help them compete for World Cup glory.

The talented skater, who works as a modern apprentice with the council's finance department, started skating aged eight and began competing in major championships when she was 12.

She was selected to represent GB in 2004 and competed in a competition named 'Cup of Europe' in Sardinia.

The couple first partnered each other in 2005 and were selected for the European Championships in Padua, Italy in their first year of skating together.

Last year they were selected to go to the European Championships in Monza, Italy and then the World Championships in Murcia, Spain.

There followed further success when they were selected to compete in the European Championships in Gujan-Mestras, France.

They are now putting in the extra hours of practice before the big championships.

Can you help Becky and Nick with their World Champion ambition by becoming a sponsor.

If so, contact Becky on 01908 254804 or e-mail Becky.Evans@milton-keynes.gov.uk

Scarecrow search returns on Sunday

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

SPOT the scarecrow family fun returns to Wolverton for the fourth year running on Sunday.

During the town's annual Scarecrow Festival scarecrows will be sited all round the town trail.

Last year's scarecrows included Pirates of the Caribbean star captain Jack Sparrow, Doctor Who with his Tardis, a wedding party in their car, Star Wars' Darth Vader, characters from Wind in the Willows and many others.

The Festival will be launched at Wolverton Farmers' Market, on the corner of Stratford Road and Creed Street, on Saturday, September 16 from 9am.

There will be free mini scarecrow making sessions for children and a number of scarecrows to spot at the market.

Most scarecrows will be out and about from 11.30am on Sunday, September 15.

Festival goers can spot them by following the pavement markers along Wolverton Walk and down Victoria Street, Moon Street and Osborne Street.

The route takes in both Wolverton's multi-award winning Secret Garden and the Wolverton Community Orchard, where refreshments will be available.

Maps will be available at the Farmers' Market and at the walk on Sunday.

There will also be free guided walks at 11.30am and 3pm, which meet in the square.

St. Georges Church will be open for visitors and will also be serving refreshments.

Homesure Windows, do it again. This is not the Homesure way. In addition to the normal facility of sending one of our experienced consultants to your home we can now offer our new service, THE QUOTE CLINIC. This enables you to bring your window sizes and styles to us for free on the spot advice, design and quotations. This makes it easier for you to avoid the minefield of wasted evenings and high pressure sales techniques. Homesure has been established in Milton Keynes since 1991, with local offices and an installation depot installing quality UPVC windows and doors, which sets standards above those currently available. For all the right reasons isn't it time you found out why so many people are saying "It's nice to be HOMESURE." Pop in for a coffee and a quote.

END OF THE WORLD

Ash

OH dear, it's all gone a bit wrong for Ash lately. They used to be so full of life and ideas, but nowadays they (or at least their singles) sound utterly bereft of inspiration, celebration or even muppetation.

Take this song, for instance. Go on, you might as well, I don't want it.

It's a slow song that sounds in places like an almost-finished demo, complete with drum machine where the proper drummer's supposed to appear.

Unfortunately, it also sounds as though Tim Wheeler hadn't finished writing the lyrics either the entire chorus consists of the line 'Is this the end of the world?' repeated over and over.

Mind you, that's the least of the song's worries. There's no life to it at all – it sounds like a song that's been rehearsed and recorded so many times that the band became heartily sick of it by the time they came to put the track together for the album. As a result, what we have here is one of Ash's least interesting singles ever.

BETTER

Regina Spektor

THIS is a proper oddity, this one. For one thing, the ending – it doesn't fade out, but it winds down very, very slowly, almost as if Ms Spektor's daring DJs everywhere to find an appropriate place to start jabbering away over the top as they get ready to play 'I Don't Feel Like Dancin'.

It's one of those songs that, if it was a person, would be all sweetness and light unless you spilled its pint, at which point it'd probably kick your head in and then saunter off whistling The Sun Has Got His Hat On.

It's different, it stands out, and chart positions were clearly the furthest thing from La Spektor's mind when she put it together. That's good enough for me.

MY EYES

Travis

MY ears. Oh God, my poor ears. This is pleasant, bland, unexciting and sounds eerily similar to the sort of music they were doing way back in the days when everyone except me was busy buying The Man Who.

Like Ash, this is the sound of a band going backwards. It's a proper nothing song that's going to sink without trace and quite frankly, it deserves to.

IDEALISTIC

Digitalism

THERE'S all sorts going on here. Basically, if you like your music played by real instruments then Digitalism really aren't going to be your cup of tea. Everything I've heard from them so far embraces computers, to the extent that if you were to put Digitalism in a room with a load of musical instruments, they'd probably look around and ask: 'What are these?'

A few years ago this sort of thing would be called electroclash.

The difference between this and bands like Fischerspooner though, is that Digitalism aren't trying to make any grand statements that'll last the test of time, they just like making songs.

It's probably much kinder to refer to them in the same breath as Vitalic as both acts like creating dance music that's defiantly individual. If you hear a Vitalic song, you know it's them, and if you hear a Digitalism song, you're hardly likely to think you're hearing Ultrabeat.

Yep, I like this one and the sly nod to Blue Monday's a nice touch too.

WHITEWALL WOODCARVER

DESIRE

Milton Keynes Contemporary Whitewall, thecentre:mk

Until October 14

Woodcarver Jeremy Turner's exhibition features colourful wooden carved relief objects that illustrate the excesses of retail and materialism.

He has used as his source aspirational objects that sustain an urban, motorised, shopping culture - cars, shop window displays, advertising, watches, mobile phones, handbags, shoes and cosmetics.

As our civilisation gets even more complicated, manufactured, promoted and discarded, it's a rare treat to be reminded of the techniques and craftsmanship that artists have for centuries been exploiting to make sense of the ever-changing world.

Historically, communication created through stories, pictures and carvings gave ancestral communities ideas on how to interpret the world. Turner uses these totems of consumerism inspired by our complex and quickening lifestyles.

The carvings, reminiscent of tribal languages, seek to restore our memory of the skill and resources of our ancestors.

He said: "Milton Keynes sustains my current creative flow as an artist, with its uniqueness, its newness, its blend of steel and glass, roundabouts and flowing traffic, the abundance of open space, trees and greenery. Its very lack of density is both its beauty and its leg-exhausting bane, especially if you are a pedestrian.

"I see a shopping temple with satellite estates for its acolytes surrounding it. I come here to watch the ritual of shopping, to participate in it and observe those who partake in the sacrament of shopping"

Jackie Tracey, commercial and events manager at thecentre:mk said: "Aptly and ironically, this exhibition takes place inside a shopping centre and mirrors the very subjects present in Jeremy's work."

Jeremy works primarily in wood, producing carved relief panels, signage, 3D constructions and carved woodware and frequently completing these with colour. He has exhibited widely and enjoys sharing his skills with adults and children at summer schools, weekend workshops and evening classes. He has worked in Milton Keynes for more than 20 years, producing town and shop signs, panels, carved benches, handrails and sculptural screens.

Wednesday September 12
THE true pimps of hardcore are back and are ready to take the entire country, from sea to shining sea!

Hailing from Orange County, California, Hed Pe fuse the local sounds of the area punk revival scene with G-funk-inflected hip-hop, a sound the band tagged G-punk.

Hed Pe have been described as the one rare metal act willing to admit that good times actually exist.

The Los Angeles-based group have sold over 700,000 albums since the release of their first EP in 1995.

Tickets £10 in advance. Doors 7.30pm.

LAIKA DOG

Plus Toby Jepson and Rattlesnack Remedy

Friday September 14
FORMER Terrovision vocalist Tony Wright's new band Laika Dog was formed on a high Yorkshire moor top. Tony, Paddy and Sim were building dry stone walls and thought it would be a good idea, and warmer, to form a band and play the tunes.
Laika Dog sound like a band on a mission but still a little unsure of what they actually want to achieve. Now, that's not a bad thing as Laika Dog get it nicely together and there's more than a touch of intrigue about their music. They've put some pretty awesome tracks together initially, it does tend to sound a bit of a mish-mash, but somehow they get there in the end and make it work.

Tickets £9 in advance. Doors 7.30pm.

PARK LIFE

Campbell Park pond

Hidden gems on your doorstep

MILTON Keynes has just won the prestigious Britain in Bloom award for largest city.

The judges awarded a Silver Gilt medal to the city and were particularly impressed by Campbell Park, North Willen Lake and the Hanson Centre.

Visit these places for yourself and discover what the judges loved most about them.

Campbell Park

FAMILIAR to many for its pop concerts and fireworks festival, Campbell Park is Milton Keynes' premier park and is cared for by The Parks Trust. In addition to hosting community events and education groups it also offers a tranquil place to relax close to the city centre.

Created in 1975 it is a relatively young park, but holds over 25,000 trees and shrubs, carefully chosen over the years to provide colour and interest in every season. Its mixture of formal gardens, woodland, sculpture and a cricket pitch make it a fascinating place to visit.

To the north it includes an elaborate system of streams and ponds running from the top of the park to a lily pond.

Walk a little further to the park's eastern flank and enjoy the colourful canal boats, duck ponds, weeping willows and woodland which provide a beautiful place to picnic.

Relax or go Wild?

NORTH Willen Lake famed for the Peace Pagoda, the first such symbol to be built in the western world, is also home to the Buddhist temple garden and some amazing wildlife. The lake with its islands is one of the best birdwatching sites in the region, attracting ducks, geese, redshank, common tern and over-wintering wildfowl. The richness and variety of habitat owes much to The Parks Trust's volunteers and a resident herd of goats that clear scrub to encourage ground nesting birds. The lake's wide variety of trees provides a stunning autumnal display behind the pagoda and standing stones.

Bloomin' Wild

FORMERLY a gravel pit, the Hanson Environmental Study Centre is now run by Milton Keynes Council as a combined nature reserve and field study centre. It was awarded a special commendation by the Britain in Bloom judges in their Bloomin' Wild award. The 37 hectare site contains a variety of habitats including meadows, reed beds, woodland, ponds and a large lake and supports a great diversity of plant and animal life.

The site incorporates a wildlife garden which demonstrates eco-friendly gardening including composting.

TASTELIFE

CAFE GANGES

47 Aylesbury Street, Fenny Stratford, Bletchley

Call: 01908376333

Review by ROB GIBSON

INDIAN restaurants can be an easy target for food critics but for the amateur taste tester Cafe Ganges ticks every box.

The surroundings are clean and uncomplicated and an Indian restaurant would not be complete without the piped music to give that 'authentic feel'.

But besides from the usual trappings, this restaurant offers a great taste experience.

The poppadoms and pickles are washed down with the customary bottle of Cobra beer as we check the menu.

It features the usual suspects alongside a good range of seafood dishes and chef's specials, while the wine menu looks reasonable too.

To our right, a table of regular customers order their 'usual' and our waiter tells me they eat here religiously.

Our plan to share three main dishes disappears when the non-vegetarian Hors-d'Oeuvres (£7.95) sizzles into view.

This comprises a selection of tasters including chicken tikka, tandoori chicken, sheesh kebab and a mouth-watering king prawn each.

The owner, a small polite man, suggests the Nawabi Chicken (£9.25) as one of the best dishes around.

Our waiter wheels out the trolley before pouring a generous amount of brandy over the entire pan and setting it on fire.

One feels a certain pride when the other guests turn in terror to see the flames licking the ceiling briefly before dying.

Nawabi Chicken became a favourite at the first mouthful.

Chicken tikka pieces are mixed with plenty of mushrooms and cooked in a thick sauce with

Cafe Ganges ticks all the boxes fresh herbs and tomatoes.

It is a medium spiced dish that provides a rich and tangy bite.

My partner's Lamb Passanda (£6.25) makes a less flamboyant entrance but treats the taste buds to wonderfully roasted picattas of lamb in a creamy onion, coconut and yoghurt sauce.

Our meal ends with coffee and chocolates to conclude a satisfying Indian experience.

Call my Aries advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why Venus puts a pleasant emphasis on your social life and romantic interests. In both these areas it looks like it's going to be an eventful week!

Taurus (Apr21-May21)

Some happy and joyous news comes your way in the shape of a career or other long term target coming closer to realisation. Some might expect you to ease up on your efforts but instead this will act as a spur to drive you even harder forward. Call my Taurus advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why if the health of a close friend or relative is worrying you it might be best to respect their desire for privacy and still find ways to show your love and concern.

Gemini (May22-June21)

Keep your fingers tightly crossed because Lady Luck will be smiling on you this week. Some work you've done in the past boosts your reputation and there is every chance you will receive a reward, promotion or a bonus. If this is linked with your career, you will be high up the list for promotion. Call my Gemini advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why the future is looking so bright that you won't be so bothered by the frenzied activity going around you over the next few days.

Cancer (June22-July23)

You're self assured and confident about the decisions you're making even if they're likely to have unexpected long term consequences and there is a degree of risk involved. Some good family news is also forecast around the 13th giving you all a cause for celebration. Call my Cancerian advice line 09065 504 342 to hear how the support of your nearest and dearest inspires you to look into new possibilities and why a house move or new job might be on the cards.

LEO (July24-Aug23)

New opportunities are just around the corner and rather more than a streak of good luck is coming your way. It could be a new job, a transfer or a promotion that makes you feel as if life is starting to go your way. Call my Leo advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why taking on new responsibilities won't bother you and why your long term prospects are potential packed as you finally get the chance to step out of the shadows and into the spotlight of stary success.

Virgo (Aug24-Sept23)

This week marks the start of some positive financial and personal trends. A rise in income looks likely and a partner might also hear something to their advantage and this will be a great reason for a celebration without you having to fret too much about the cost. Call my Virgoan advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why a surge of energy sweeps through you as the week ends super-charging your thoughts and galvanising you into action.

Libra (Sept24-Oct23)

Take heart and don't worry if a cherished plan has been thwarted or if you've been plagued by minor frustrations because all restrictions will soon be a thing of the past! If romance is your main interest now, then the weekend could bring some pleasant developments. Call my Libran advice line 09065 504 342 to hear how you may not be conscious of a sudden freedom from hang ups but by the middle of the week you will start to realise life is flowing much more smoothly as a whole.

Scorpio (Oct24-Nov22)

Fund raising or neighbourhood activities will exceed your expectations and your leisure time interests could soon start to bring in some excellent results. If you have recently been restructuring some of your major aims and objectives everything will start to fall nicely into place this week. Call my Scorpio advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why this is likely to be a particularly lively and exciting time if you're involved in buying, selling and commercial activities.

Sagittarius (Nov23-Dec21)

A cheerful, fairly leisurely week lies ahead of you. Call my Sagittarian advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you could be entertaining relatives or visiting a loved one who lives overseas and just getting back together will trigger some nostalgic recollections so you will genuinely regret it when you and those you share your days with have to part company. If you're hoping to expand your interests, you will have more scope for exploring fresh possibilities now.

Capricorn (Dec22-Jan20)

A good week to push ahead with home improvement schemes and if you're hoping to improve your creative skills and talents, now is the time to make your best efforts. Call my Capricorn advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why your powers of concentration and determination will be enhanced and strengthened if you are pursuing studies or learning how to come to terms with changed circumstances. New concepts you have been struggling to get to grips with will start to take a more logical form.

Aquarius (Jan21-Feb19)

News of an engagement, marriage or birth are all possibilities as some form of family celebration is in the offing. There might just be enough time to sort out your preparations and shop around for a suitable gift. Your partner might even join in without complaining! Call my Aquarian advice line 09065 504 342 to hear how to make the most of a stimulating link between Mercury and Jupiter by contacting people, writing important letters, creating your own web site and swapping ideas with new friends.

Pisces (Feb20-Mar20)

You sail through your daily rounds with self assured confidence solving problems before they have a chance to develop and making this a positive week for dealing with ongoing issues that should have been dealt with a long time ago. Call my Piscean advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why a frivolous influence in the evenings allows you to mix with all your favourite folk and indulge in light hearted, fun filled activities of no great magnitude but which give you a whole heap of pleasure.

A hole new challenge to village fundraising

ENTHUSIASTS from business and the community are encouraged to join a challenging golf day with The ExtraCare Charitable Trust, on October 2, at Woburn Golf Club.

The event will boost charitable funds, required to pay for health and leisure facilities at Lovat Fields Retirement Village, in Willen.

With a full English breakfast, evening buffet, raffle and presentation, the event also includes refreshments on the course provided by The Swan at Salford, a champagne challenge and a chance to win a hole-in-one prize on the 17th hole.

Supporting the golf day will help fund village facilities that will benefit hundreds of older people across the city, many of whom may be isolated, have limited means or have little opportunity to socialise.

The facilities, which include a well-being centre, cafe bar and fitness gym can only be paid for through ExtraCare charitable funding.

Lovat Fields Village co-ordinator Sue Bromfield said: "Entering a team, or sponsoring a hole will support a village that is already having a life-changing impact on many older people in the area."

Companies entering teams already include: Coutts, Allied Carpets, Shoosmiths, Walkers International Removals, City Law and McCann Homes.

Another village fundraiser is a three hour endurance race being held at Daytona Milton Keynes on September 18.

Six teams from local businesses, including Oakhill Property Services, have already entered but there is space for more.

To support the golf or karting challenge, you can contact Sue Bromfield on 0782 542 6574 or e-mail: sue.bromfield@extracare.org.uk

Par for the course: Supporting the Woburn Golf Day in aid of Lovat Fields Retirement Village are Beverly Venables of Allied Carpets and Les Moss of Walkers International Removals

Instant uploads help agent sell property online

A PARTNERSHIP between two city companies has created a comprehensive new website that is expected to revolutionise the buying and letting housing market in Milton Keynes.

A £30,000 investment from Oakhill chartered surveyors, estate agents and letting agents enabled website development company, Virtual Viewing to create a fully functional and interactive website with state-of-the-art programming that will confirm Oakhill's commitment and growth within the property market in Milton Keynes.

Following three months of research, development and application, Oakhill and Virtual Viewing are now proud to reveal www.oakhill.co.uk, which went live this week.

Virtual Viewing has designed a programme to integrate and extract data from Vebra, the UK's premier provider of estate agency software and property portal services, which is a first in the UK and will be significant to the distinction of the website.

Virtual Viewing's unique Online System 4 Content Administrative Release (OSCAR) will allow Oakhill employees to self manage the website and upload information instantly.

"It's imperative in the fast moving industry of property buying and selling," explains Oakhill managing director Philip Grace.

"We needed a fast, sleek and stylish website that was supported by a simple and easy to use administrative facility that my team could access and manage at any time."

The OSCAR system will allow Oakhill to upload any new property in 'real time' and allow management to guarantee a customer's property to go live the same day, when received before 3pm.

As part of Virtual Viewing's commitment to understanding Oakhill's initial briefing, managing director Stewart Bailey spent a week working with staff in their offices.

Mr Bailey said: "By developing a high quality website, Oakhill will quickly see their return on investment as the need for a professional and easy to use search portal of information is crucial in the property industry."

Among the new features on the website are 'Property News', 'Oakhill Newsletter', and 'Milton Keynes The Future' – an impressive 3D virtual tour of Milton Keynes.

■ Further information about Oakhill or Virtual Viewing can be found at www.oakhill.co.uk and www.virtualviewing.co.uk

It's easy to turn your office into an environmentally friendly workplace

RECYCLING is a way of life for many of us. However, when it comes to the workplace, more should be done to encourage sustainable working practices.

That's the view of officebroker.com.

With a quarter of UK workers clocking up more than 48 hours per week, many of us spend more time in the office than we do at home.

Jim Venables, managing director of officebroker.com said: "When it comes to going green in the office, there are plenty of small, straightforward ideas that all of us can adopt to improve our working environments."

"And we have found that businesses whose employees have embraced environmentally friendly working practices have enjoyed considerable benefits including reduced costs and a closer, communicative workforce."

Officebroke.com offers the following simple tips to anyone keen to make their office a greener space.

■ Turn all computer equipment, machinery or other mechanical appliances off when not in use.

■ Recycle, reduce and reuse waste. For example, print or photocopy on both sides of paper, recycle envelopes and labels and turn scrap paper into notepads.

■ Switch off any unnecessary lighting during the day, particularly near windows or in corridors which do not require bright lighting.

■ Position desks and workstations to make best use of natural light.

■ Ask the last person to leave the office to ensure they turn everything off including printers, drink machines, fans, computers and lights – perhaps have a checklist drawn up and posted by the door or alarm control panel.

■ Use the stairs instead of the lift – it's a great way to get fit too.

■ Consider turning the heating down and wearing warmer clothing in winter. Liaise with health and safety staff to tackle overheating caused by poorly maintained equipment of ventilation. Make sure radiators and heaters aren't obstructed and ask your employer to improve insulation.

■ Ask colleagues if they would be interested in organising a green travel plan. This should include walking in groups, cycling, car sharing etc.

■ Consider using reusable items rather than disposables – china cups and metal cutlery for example.

■ Use e-mail or notice boards to share information instead of printed memos.

Operations & Admin assistant including some marketing

We need someone with initiative to work closely with the MD to help run the company. In addition to the usual Word and Excel experience, the candidate will need good general computer literacy, excellent organisational skills and some experience of project scheduling would be an advantage. We would consider someone without direct marketing experience as long as they had a confident telephone and personal manner and an interest in learning this aspect of the business.

BRENTFORD

League Two
Saturday, September 15. KO 3pm
Griffin Park

THERE will be two intriguing battles in this game, the first on the pitch between the players, while the second will be on the touchline between the managers, former England team-mates Paul Ince and Terry Butcher.

Butcher took over the Bees for their final two matches last year, with the club's relegation already confirmed, and has had a mixed start to League Two.

The Bees have won two, drawn one and lost one so far, their first defeat coming against Wycombe Wanderers last week.

They are one point and one place ahead of the Dons in eighth place, but it is the dismissal of two players in the space of three games that will have Butcher concerned.

Former Dons midfielder, Gary Smith, is on the books for Brentford and has made one appearance from the bench, while he started in their defeat against Swindon in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

The Dons have not won a league match against Brentford, but they have claimed victory in the League cup, back in 2004.

Dons defender Sean O'Hanlon faces a late fitness race for the game after picking up a knee injury against Notts County, while Colin Cameron and Mark Wright, who both missed the game, will be hoping to be in with a shout.

But it was a penalty ten minutes from the end which cost the Dons as Matthew Halliday converted from the spot following Sam Page's handball.

The reserves are away to Peterborough United on Monday, September 17.

SKIPPER Keith Andrews has been named in the League Two team of the week for the second time this season.

The Dons midfielder grabbed his fourth goal of the season and is now one of seven players at the top of the goal scoring table.

League Two Team of the Week: Tommy Lee (Macclesfield Town), Gareth Owen (Stockport County), Mark Roberts (Accrington Stanley), Jim Bentley (Morecambe), Gary Croft (Lincoln City), Omar Daley (Bradford), Keith Andrews (MK Dons), Craig Rocastle (Port Vale), Jason Puncheon (Barnet), Steve Fletcher (Chesterfield), Paul Mullin (Accrington Stanley).

Fortress MK taking shape

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

AT the start of the season Paul Ince urged his players and the fans to turn stadium:mk into a fortress.

After a defeat on the opening day it looked a tough task but following two successive victories at the ground, six goals and two clean sheets, Ince's plan could possibly turn into a reality.

For the second successive time at the stadium, the Dons dominated play and won 3-0, this time against Notts County.

To some it may only be two wins on the bounce at home but for the budding Dons players it is plenty to gain confidence from and help them develop a winning run.

There has been no doubt that the Dons strike force would be up to the task in front of goal this year, which is somewhat surprising when you consider they lost two strikers – who notched up 42 goals between them in one season – to the Championship during the summer.

And having scored 17 goals in all competitions, of which there have been seven games, where the next goal will come from will not be keeping Ince awake at night.

With skipper Keith Andrews, in the form of his life, bombing forward to make an impact on the game, there is always an attacking option for the Dons.

It was Andrews who opened the scoring against the Magpies, this time not with a thunderous strike but a powerful header.

However, at the other end of the pitch there have been a few raised eyebrows of late.

In recent years – in particular last season – Dons keepers were renowned for making the odd howler and the defence line always looked a little shaky.

It was such a key area that the signings of Willy Gueret and Nathan Abbey were left right down to the first day of the season so Ince was 100 per cent sure he had the right men.

But there was still a hole in defence, one which has been filled with the addition of Danny Swailes and that has paid dividends for the Dons.

Not only has the towering centre-back proved invaluable, he showed against Notts County his aerial attack, grabbing his first goal for the club after diving in the box to meet Dean Lewington's cross.

It was, for the most part, a fairly quiet day for the Dons back line as they remained largely untroubled throughout the game and even the return of veteran striker Jason Lee for the Magpies could not boost the visitors' chances.

Losing in the final minutes to Rochdale in the previous game was clearly in the mind of the Dons players and they continued to search for a final goal to kill the game.

Jemal Johnson made a terrific impact when he partnered Dyer down the ranks and caused havoc in the Magpies' defence.

But it was Aaron Wilbraham who rounded off the scoring with the Dons' third header of the game, to seal an impressive three points.

Assistant coach, Ray Mathias, welcomed the victory, saying: "You can see how much the lads wanted it."

"We had a little bit of a go at them at half-time for not being ruthless enough in front of goal but eventually we got the goals which I thought we deserved."

VIEW FROM THE MOOCAMP

MK Dons have received a tough draw at home to Peterborough United in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy second round.

The Dons were one of 16 clubs from the northern and southern sections to be given a bye in the first round.

In a change to last season, both the northern and southern sections will be sub-divided for round two and the ties will be in the week starting October 8.

THE Dons' first home reserve fixture at stadium:mk ended in a narrow 2-1 defeat to Norwich City.

Trialist defender Matt Carbon's injury nightmare continued as he was forced to withdraw from the game after ten minutes.

Rossi Jarvis put the visitors ahead with a powerful header shortly after the restart, before Stephane Koffi levelled the score for the Dons.

FANS' FAVOURITE WRITES FOR YOU

AS a player I have to say that I have always loved playing in night games.

The surface is always nice and greasy which makes it easier to pass the ball about at high tempo and fly into tackles.

There's also something about floodlights that makes the matches a bit more special than usual.

From the way we played Friday night against a very established Notts County side, I think some of the lads must have the same opinion.

Some of the football we played was breath-taking, but that is what this team is capable of doing and it was great for me and, I bet, yourselves to watch. I'm certain no one will be asking for their money back.

The last goal typified the second-half performance with crisp interplay down the left and great ball in. It fell to the head of Alby, who has had a tough few months with injury, to finish it perfectly. I have to admit he has come back like he has never been away.

It was also nice to see a bit more of our new signing Jemal Johnson, who had a fantastic second half, he really made a big impression and looks a fantastic bit of business from the manager.

PAUL MITCHELL

Losing two of the best strikers in the league in the summer would have affected most squads but this one seems to be able to score all different types of goals which will really help us have a great season.

It also shows what great character the boys have to move on and take more responsibility for scoring goals.

With the amount of chances we are creating I wouldn't be surprised if even I got in on the act before the season finishes! Well maybe that's just a bit of wishful thinking on my part!

To Brentford who have always been a bit of a bogey team for us. Don't get me wrong, we always play really well against them but never come away with the points our effort deserves. I for one, and I'm sure the manager as well, would definitely take it the other way round this year.

See you all there making as much noise as possible and pushing the boys on until the final whistle as ever.

MOTOR RACING

Frustration for Red Bull

THE Italian Grand Prix proved to be another frustrating weekend of racing for Red Bull as David Coulthard crashed out in the opening lap and Mark Webber narrowly missed out on the points.

The race was once again dominated by the McLaren-Ferrari spy row, which will come to a head at tomorrow's World Motor Sport Council hearing in Paris.

And while the front of the grid are struggling with on-going problems off the track, Red Bull are continuing to battle with the performance of their cars on it.

Things could not have gone much worse at the start of the race with Coulthard, starting at the back of the pack, crashing out of the race at 180mph after the slightest of touches with Giancarlo Fisichella's Renault.

Following Coulthard's crash, the safety car was deployed allowing the drivers to refocus while the remains of the accident were cleared.

Speaking after the crash Coulthard said: "I touched the back of Fisichella's car in the middle of the first chicane and broke my front wing."

"When I accelerated, the down force

Shortly after the start of the Italian Grand Prix on Sunday just before Red Bull's David Coulthard crashed out of the race pushed the wing underneath the front of the car and broke the steering. I went straight off the track and into the tyres – that was the end of the weekend."

Webber's performance could not raise the spirits of the Red Bull garage, with his car lacking the pace he needed to break into the points.

The Aussie had started in 11th place and did manage to make up two positions, yet despite the retirement of Felipe Massa, Webber just missed out in ninth place.

He said: "I had a pretty good start and a good scrap with Jenson Button and Nico Rosberg over the first few laps.

"It was one of the most difficult races I've done in terms of inconsistent balance, so we need to improve that and sort out some of the reliability issues that are still affecting us.

"It's disappointing to only finish ninth after the effort we've put in over the last few weeks."

The Milton Keynes-based team have just a few days to make amends with the Belgian Grand Prix taking place this weekend.

Lightning strike twice to claim bragging rights

MK LIGHTNING claimed 'The Ashes' at the weekend, with a double win over their biggest rivals, Peterborough Phantoms.

Despite the clash being officially titled a friendly, both sides went all out to claim the bragging rights in the local derby and it was Lightning who came out on top with two impressive performances against former Lightning captain Dwayne Newman's side.

Lightning went 3-0 up within 14 minutes of the first period, Gary Clarke scored either side of Adam Radmall before James Archer pulled one back for the Phantoms.

New signing Toni Alasaarela doubled Lightning's lead with the help of Clarke and Ales Parez but James Morgan, the former Lightning defender, added Phantoms' second to make the scores 4-2 going into the final period.

The Phantoms continued to plug away and Taras Foremsky grabbed a third, yet

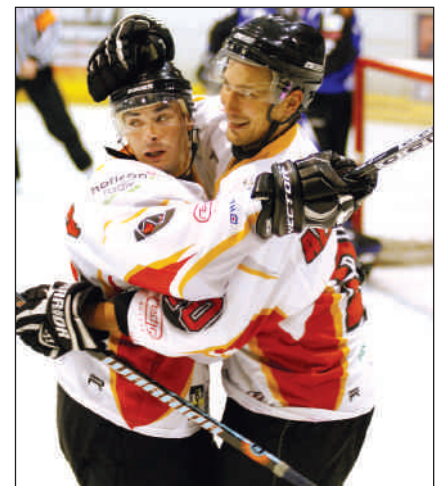

Clarke had the final say as he grabbed his hat-trick and won the game 5-3 for Lightning.

The story was much the same in the away fixture as Lightning again found themselves 3-0 up. Player-coach and man of the match, Nick Poole, scored two while Mikko Skinnari also got his name on the scoreboard.

But Craig Peacock found a way through to goal and Archer netted Phantoms' third although that was where the fightback ended, as Lightning won 8-5 on aggregate.

On the back of wins against Romford and Peterborough, Lightning are hitting form just in time as their EPL Cup campaign starts this Saturday.

They take on Guildford at home, with face-off at 7pm and on Sunday Lightning play Chelmsford at the Riverside Ice and Leisure centre, face-off is at 6.30pm.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

MK Park were relegated from the first division as their game was abandoned due to bad light.

Having won the toss and elected to field it was a tough start for Park, with Dinton's captain Ashley Smith hitting an unbeaten century to help set up a target of 214-3.

In reply, Graham Sear and Graham Simpson posted 62 runs for the first wicket partnership, but the wickets slowly began to fall and Park were at 196-4 after 45 overs when the umpires called an end to the game.

Despite the season just ending, Park already have an eye on next year and are keen to hear from any players who may be interested in joining the club.

But a resilient Burton Latimer side prevented Stony from taking maximum points as they batted through their innings to finish 238-9.

Stony will end their season this Saturday at home to Old Northamptonians.

Ince praises striker

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

AARON Wilbraham has been praised by MK Dons manager, Paul Ince, for putting his injury-nightmare year behind him and scoring his first goal in nine months.

The Dons forward last hit the back of the net in December and his season fell apart due to a recurring ankle injury, which needed surgery in April.

But on his return Wilbraham impressed Ince and delighted fans when he headed the final goal in the Dons' 3-0 victory against Notts County, right in front of the Cowshed.

And Ince was quick to recognise the striker's effort, he said: "The lad's spot on. When you join a new club you inherit players and it takes you a few weeks to suss out their attitude and whether they are going to meet your demands."

"He's a player I wanted in the team straight away."

"Hopefully that goal will lift him. As an individual he's a fantastic lad, so for him to get on the score-sheet was good news for everyone."

Wilbraham could be rewarded for his second half performance by replacing the injured Kevin Gallen this weekend against Brentford.

The match will see Ince lock horns with his former England team-mate Terry Butcher for the first time as a manager – but the Dons boss is keen to let his players do the talking.

"His team is going to be full of energy and aggression," Ince added.

"It's not about me and Butcher, it's about what the players do. Hopefully mine do better than his and we come out with three points!"

The Dons have been in great form on their own territory but away from home they have seen two leads slip and are still in search of their first win on the road.

Ince said: "It's going to be a hard game, I watched them play against Wycombe and they've got a lot of young fearless players."

"I'm looking forward to the clash, it will be a good test for us, especially after losing away to Rochdale."

"It'll be a nice challenge for the lads to get the first away win."

Despite scoring eight goals in their last three games, Ince has asked his players not to waste their chances in front of goal.

He added: "We've got to be more clinical, we're creating a lot of chances but not finishing them. While it's 1-0 there's always a chance teams will come back and bite you in the backside."

"Maybe I'm nit-picking, that's just the way I am!"

If the Dons do claim all three points they will jump above their hosts in the table.

'I'm back': All smiles as Aaron Wilbraham collects his first goal in nine months to make it 3-0 over Notts County

MK share spoils in opener while Olney start in some style

SOUTHERN COUNTIES NORTH

MILTON Keynes drew their opening game of the season against Grove as the two sides clocked-up 25 points apiece.

Both teams were hoping to start their campaign on a high and tempers flared as MK prop Richard Hill was shown yellow and two Grove players were also sent to the sin bin.

It was the centre pairing of MK that proved handy with Andrew Poole crossing the line and Timothy Parkinson adding two more tries, while Eddie Slater kicked two penalties and a conversion before Mike Dean converted the final try.

But a bruising Grove side matched them score for score and ensured they only took a point from the game.

OLNEY Town kicked off their campaign with a 36-10 win against Swindon.

With Swindon newcomers to the league, having suffered relegation at the end of last season, it was a promising win for the Olney side.

Will Edwards grabbed a hat-trick of tries and three conversions, while Rhys Peakman and Raana Peakman scored a try each.

James Hannah also crossed the line to cap off a great team display by Olney.

BASKETBALL

New Lion's signing could see opposition crying 'alas'

JUST a week away from their first championship match, Marshall MK Lions have completed the late signing of one of the biggest names in the British Basketball League, Yorick Williams.

The Manchester-born player was fifth leading scorer in the BBL last season with 18.57 points per game and joins from the Jelson Homes DMU Leicester Riders, for which he led the way in scoring.

On the only addition to the squad, Lions chief Vince Macaulay, said: "Yorick has nothing to prove to us here, he simply joins a team trying to win, he is probably the most exciting player in the BBL and will bring a rapier game to add to the power we already possess."

Williams, a 6ft 4inch shooting guard, is a previous BBL Championship and BBL Cup winner, and also featured for Chris Finch's GB squad last summer.

Apart from the 2001-02 season, when he played for ARIS Thessaloniki in Greece, Williams has spent the entirety of his 13-year professional career in the BBL, and has always brought a significant impact to his teams.

"I expect Yorick to fit in perfectly," added Macaulay. "I am happy for our fans, they will see us compete at a very high level, Yorick is already a legend to British players and leads the youngsters in letting them know how far they can go in their basketball so I am glad to have him here."

■ The Lions travel to the London Leopards on Saturday for their final friendly before the BBL Championship season starts. Tip-off at Wodson Park is at 5.30pm.
